

Welcome to Coppenrath Feingebäck

At Coppenrath, the fine bakery runs in the family. For six generations we have been dedicated to the baking and confectionery craft, to the production of the finest pastry specialties and their distribution. In the course of almost two centuries, we have not only gained a great depth of experience, but also of responsibility.

Responsibility for the quality of our products, which we produce with all our expertise, good recipes and selected ingredients. Responsibility for the satisfaction of our trade partners and customers, who can rely on our technology and logistics. And responsibility for the well-being of our employees, who ensure that we live up to our good reputation every day.

Nowadays, we deliver our pastries throughout the world. But we never forget our roots. With hand and heart, honoring the old and daring the new - that is what characterizes us as a family business and sets us apart from many anonymous large concerns. And that is what I personally stand for with my name.
